

Charles J. Hecht

We recently used Mr. Rosenbloom as a neutral mediator in a very contentious family dispute involving two derivative actions concerning real estate located in New York City. This mediation also involved some complex legal issues. Arthur as a neutral mediator was terrific. He was able to come up with an initial process involving the use of an appraiser satisfactory to both parties to evaluate the properties. This report was very helpful to both sides. He was then able in subsequent sessions to efficiently and fairly resolve this dispute. I have used mediators on many occasions over the last forty years, and would recommend that anyone consider using Arthur, especially in complex situations requiring creative approaches and difficult clients and/or attorneys.
