

David M. Brodsky, Esq.

Some years ago, Art Rosenbloom and I met, while serving as arbitrators in a dispute arising over a non-compete clause, he as chair and I as one of the party-designated wingmen. I found him to be extremely analytical and highly intelligent, thoroughly knowledgeable about complex issues arising out of M&A and other complex transactions, as well as accounting and valuation issues. He was a model chair, as he treated the parties extremely fairly, kept the proceedings running on an efficient basis, and ultimately guided his co-arbitrators to a unanimous award. Since that occasion, I have frequently turned to Art for advice on an informal basis, and have unhesitatingly referred consulting, expert witness, as well as ADR business to him. He is collegial, highly intelligent, and hard working. I consider him a friend as well as a skilled business person, and recommend him without hesitation to anyone looking for an arbitrator or mediator of a complex dispute.
